

Cardinal Health Outlines Leadership Succession Plan

-- Mike Kaufmann Named Chief Executive Officer, Effective January 1, 2018 --

-- George Barrett Continues as Executive Chairman of the Board through November 2018 Annual Meeting of Shareholders -

-- Jorge Gomez, CFO of Cardinal Health's Medical Segment, to Succeed Kaufmann as Chief Financial Officer --

DUBLIN, Ohio, Nov. 6, 2017 /PRNewswire/ -- Cardinal Health (NYSE: CAH) announced today that it has named Mike Kaufmann, 54, its current chief financial officer, to serve as the company's next chief executive officer and join the board of directors, effective Jan. 1, 2018. Kaufmann will succeed George Barrett, 62, Cardinal Health's chairman and chief executive officer since 2009, who will continue to serve as executive chairman of the board of directors through the annual meeting of shareholders in November 2018. At that time, Gregory Kenny, Cardinal Health's lead independent director, will assume the role of non-executive chairman.

Kaufmann is a 27-year veteran of Cardinal Health with responsibility for all of the company's financial activities in addition to overseeing Global Sourcing for both the Pharmaceutical and Medical segments. As a member of Cardinal Health's senior executive team, Kaufmann has played an important role in developing and executing the company's strategy. He has also been instrumental in key strategic initiatives, including the company's joint venture with CVS Health, Red Oak Sourcing, where he serves on the board of directors, and the creation of Fuse, Cardinal Health's technology innovation center. He previously held senior commercial and operational leadership positions across the Pharmaceutical and Medical businesses.

Lead Director Kenny said, "A critical responsibility of our board of directors is thoughtful succession planning. We have worked closely with George throughout his tenure on this important process and, under his stewardship, Cardinal Health has developed a strong leadership bench. In appointing Mike as our next CEO, the board has chosen a proven executive with demonstrated leadership skills and deep operational experience. Mike has broad knowledge across key areas of Cardinal Health's operations and excellent relationships with our customers, our business partners, and the financial community. We are confident that he has the talents and abilities to lead Cardinal Health through our next stage of growth, and we expect a very smooth transition of leadership."

Kenny continued, "In determining the board's governance structure announced today, we have taken into account a wide range of factors, including the current practices of other organizations, as well as the views of our shareholders. The board will continue to evaluate this structure on a regular basis in service to its shareholders and other key stakeholders."

Barrett commented, "As I approach a decade with Cardinal Health, it feels very natural to hand the baton to Mike, who has been a close and trusted partner to me and an integral part of driving our strategy. Mike brings tremendous knowledge of our business, a passion for excellence, and a commitment to the values and mission of our organization, and he has the respect of our entire organization. The steps we've taken to expand our reach and enhance our critical role within the healthcare industry, including our recent acquisition of Medtronic's Patient Recovery business, position Cardinal Health well for the future. Mike is a superb leader and operator, well-prepared to take the reins and guide us forward to leverage the full potential of Cardinal Health."

Kaufmann said, "I am honored to be selected as Cardinal Health's next chief executive. George and I have worked side by side for years, and I look forward to continuing our partnership over the next year in ensuring a successful transition. George has built a powerful legacy and strategy that I am proud to have helped craft. I look forward to working with him and our incredibly talented and dedicated team to build on the strong foundation we have in place and further enhance the value we provide to all of our stakeholders, while never losing sight of our ultimate goal of supporting our partners in the critical work they do serving patients and their families."

Kenny continued, "We want to express our great appreciation for George's leadership and are pleased that we will continue to benefit from his contributions as Chairman. Through his vision and many achievements, George has led the transformation of Cardinal Health into the leader it is today. Cardinal Health has built an outstanding portfolio of market-leading businesses across the healthcare continuum, positioning the company for continued growth, while establishing a culture committed to patient welfare and the highest ethical standards."

Barrett added, "It has been a great privilege to lead this exceptional organization. I look forward to working with Mike and helping in any way which furthers Cardinal Health's success, as well as having the opportunity to devote more of my time to addressing critical issues for our company, our industry, and our communities. I have been fortunate to work with a talented and experienced board, a world-class leadership team, and our 50,000 colleagues around the world whose unwavering dedication inspires me and truly sets Cardinal Health apart in our industry. As a company, we look forward to continuing to have a strong and active voice during this extraordinary time in healthcare."

Additionally, as part of the succession plan, Jorge Gomez, 50, will succeed Mike Kaufmann as Cardinal Health's chief financial officer. Gomez currently serves as senior vice president and chief financial officer of Cardinal Health's Medical segment and previously served as chief financial officer of Cardinal Health's Pharmaceutical segment, as well as in roles as both the company's treasurer and controller. Prior to joining Cardinal Health 12 years ago, Gomez spent close to 10 years with General Motors, where he served in a variety of financial roles.

Kaufmann commented, "I have worked with Jorge closely for many years and trust and respect him deeply. I'm thrilled that the board has endorsed this important promotion, and I look forward to continuing to work with him to achieve Cardinal Health's strategic and business objectives in the years ahead. He has proven himself in the most senior finance roles in our two core businesses, and his extensive financial experience and familiarity with our business will make him an invaluable partner for me as Cardinal Health's next CFO."
